MR. M. C. STANBACK DEAD.

His Death at Sanford Caused by Typhoid Fever.

After a long and severe illness with typhoid fever, Mr. M. C. Stanback breathed his last at 11 o'clock Saturday morning at Sanford.

He was one of the best known men in the state, combining honor and integrity with great business ability and numbering his friends by everybody who knew him. He represented the Merchants' Grocery Company, of this city, as traveling salesman for several years, and was a consistent member of the Presbyterian church of Sanford. His wife and one child survive him. Mrs. George Dick, of this city, is a sister of deceased.

The funeral took place at Sanford yesterday, and the remains were interred at Buffalo church, near that place.

City Mortuary Report.

The city mortuary report for the month of October was completed by City Clerk Michaux to-day, and is as follows:

Deaths under five years of age—3 white and 5 colored.

The following were the causes of the deaths: Apoplexy, 1; typhoid fever, 1; malarial fever, 2; cholera infantum, 1; pneumonia, 1; paralysis, 1; dropsy, 2; other causes, 5.

There were no contagious diseases reported during the month. The total number of births is not reported.

Car Smashed Up.

A small wreck occurred Saturday afternoon just beyond the coal chute, in which two empty box cars were derailed and one of them smashed in pieces. It required some time to clear the track and the train to Winston was delayed about two or three hours. No one was hurt.

Hats, furnishings and clothing must be closed out at once to effect the winding up of the busines of the Fishblate-Katz Co., Inc.

Numbers of people who bought shoes of us last season reinforced with A. S. T. Co.'s Tips, tell us that they last nearly twice as long as shoes made in the ordinary way. We have just received a fresh supply of these excellent little shoes made with the A. S. T. Co. sole leather tip at the toes and extending around the sides. They come both button and laced, and are sold for $1.10 and $1.25.

BRIGHTER FOR THE ENGLISH

The Situation in South Africa Changing

8,000 FRESH TROOPS ARRIVE

Which it is Thought Will Quickly Set the Boers on the Defensive.

7,000 More are Expected.

By Cable to the TELEGRAM.

London, Nov. 13—A dispatch received today from Mafeking, dated Oct. 31, says that the garrison made a night attack on the Boer trenches on the 30th ult. The British loss was six killed and nine wounded. The Boers lost heavily. And on the 31st ult. the Boers assaulted Mafeking and were repulsed with severe loss. The British loss was six killed and five wounded.

BRIGHTER FOR THE BRITISH

London, Nov. 13—A Durban dispatch of the 9th says:

"Runners report Boers severely defeated at Ladysmith this morning. The Boer guns were silenced in four hours. Boer losses are heavy. Simultaneous attacks upon Ladysmith, Mafeking and Kimberly opened Thursday, which shows that the Boers recognize the fact that every day lessens their chance of making a successful onslaught on any of the British strongholds. Gen. Jouberts chance of reaching Pietermaritzburg has vanished. This is already reported admitted by a prominent Boer commandant, who said that it was the Boers' intention to capture Pietermaritzburg. But all hope of this must now be abandoned. There is no doubt that from the British standpoint, the general situation is rapidly improving. Nearly 8,000 troops have reached South Africa within the last 48 hours. By the end of the week 7,000 more will be added."

AGUINALDO ALMOST CAUGHT.

The Rebel Chief and His Army Surrounded by the Americans.

By Cable to THE TELEGRAM

Manila, Nov. 13—A correspondent of the Associated Press, with Gen. Young, telegraphs from San Jose that Aguinaldo did not escape to the northeast of the island of Luzon. He and his army are surrounded by the Americans. His last orders to the Filipino commander at San Jose were to hold San Jose and Carrongian at all costs. Young is supposed to have reached San Nicolas, but his wagons are behind. Col. Hays has captured Aguinaldo's secretary and the son of Gen. Llaneras. The prisoners were with the family of the general, who barely escaped.

SECRETARY ROOT DELIGHTED

Washington, Nov. 13—'Now this is good news," said Secretary Root this morning as he received the cable from Otis announcing the capture of Aguinaldo's secretary and a large amount of property by the Americans, and that Aguinaldo was penned up so that he cannot immediately escape. The dispatch confirmed the fall of Tarlac and the capture of 175 of the belligerents

THE IDEAL ENTERTAINERS.

They Will Appear at the Academy Thursday Night.

One of the most attractive features of the entertainment to be given by the Ideal Entertainers, which organization is announced to appear here on Nov. 16 at the Academy of Music, will be the presentation by Miss Helen Cushing and Mr. Louis M. Vail of Miss Cushing's bright sketch entitled "Honoree.' The play deals with the affection of a Parisian vaudeville artist for an American gentleman belonging to an exclusive Southern family. Its scene is laid in the dressing room of a metropolitan vaudeville house, where "Honoree" is appearing. She learns of the fierce opposition of the family of her lover to his marrying her. Rather than blight his prospects she causes him to leave her by pretending she loves another. The theme, while not new, is treated in a novel fashion. The dialogue of the sketch is bright and its elements of humor and pathos are beautifully blended.

A Regret.

The copy for Prof. Tillinghast's musical department in the Telegram having failed to be provided us until after noon, this usually pleasing feature of Monday's paper had to be omitted for lack of space. It will appear tomorrow.

Fine Posters.

Have you seen the fine posters of the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company of Winston, advertising their two leading brands of tobacco, "R. J. West, has the contract for this posting in Greensboro and several other towns in North Carolina, and there is no doubt but that it will be done up in great shape, as he is a hustler in the advertising business

Mrs. W. B. Steele returned home Saturday night.

Mrs. Ida Beeson, accompanied by Miss Hamlett, came up from Greensboro Saturday evening and spent Sunday here.

John Scruggs, formerly assistant operator here, but now of Danville, spent yesterday in the city.

Thursday night is the Mabel Paige company's first night here. No doubt a large audience will greet them. Tickets on sale at Matton's drug store.

Frank Page, of Biscoe, was here Saturday evening on business.

The Chimes of Normandy by the Herald Square Opera Company was presented to a fair sized but appreciative audience here Saturday night. The play was cleverly handled.

Children's Day was observed at the M. E. church yesterday morning. Quite a good crowd was present to hear what the little folks had to say and they were fully repaid, for the children acquitted themselves in a very creditable manner. At night similar exercises exercises were held, participated in by the young ladies of the church. The singing, recitations, reading, chorus, solo and talk by the pastor, were all enjoyed.

The cottage of Henry Pettiford, colored, on South Main street, was destroyed by fire yesterday morning about eight o'clock. The fire originated from a defective flue Everything in the house was saved except a stove and one or two chairs. Partially insured.

WILL MEET THE RATES.

$100,000 Saved the Property Owners at One Stroke.

The South Eastern Tariff Association has just sent out instructions to its agents to reduce rates from 25 to 33½ per cent on dwellings, school houses, court houses and churches The association is claiming that this reduction is made on account of the present favorable insurance laws in North Carolina. There are two things notable about this reduction: first, that it is confined to the state of North Carolina, and second, that it is as certain as cicumstantial evidence can make it that this reduction has been aimed at the Greensboro companies. We are advised that the Greensboro companies will promptly meet these rates and that they will continue to pay their dividends to policy holders just as they have done heretofore,—that the Greensboro companies will make no variation from their plan.

As this reduction applies to the the whole territory in North Carolina it is a safe estimate that the saving which this reduction will make to the people of North Carolina will be not less than $100,000 00, and for this reduction it is claiming for them no more than is due, to say that it is due solely to the dividends which our Greensboro companies have been paying to their policy holders, and it does not take a prophet to predict that the people of North Carolina will continue to give to the Greensboro companies the strong support they have accorded them heretofore. It is only by fostering such home companies as these dividend paying companies that we can secure any concession from a combination like the South Eastern Tariff Association.

MISS MABEL PAIGE

At the Academy of Music Tonight. A Fine Actress.

The announcement of the return of Mabel Paige to the Academy of Music for a 3 night's engagement, beginning tonight, will be hailed with delight by the many admirers of that charming little comedienne.

As a child star she made for herself a reputation in the south, of which many an older actress might be proud. Now she returns to us at the head of one of the strongest musical combinations that ever left New York, namely, Marshall's Musical Comedy Co. A congress of comedians, singers and dancers of national reputation, presenting a repertoire of high class musical comedies and opperettas including The Little Cadet. The Wicklow Lass, Miss Juliet, and others. The company is under the direction of Marshall & Co., of New York city. All the music which will be used during the engagement has been expressly written for this attraction by Harry B. Marshall, who bears an enviable reputation among composers of popular music.

NEXT SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE

Mr. Henderson is Expected to be at Washington this Week.

THE ARGUMENT OF COMMITTEE

Will be Begun at Once—President McKinley and Wife Going to Visit Hobart.

Special to THE TELEGRAM.

Washington, Nov. 15—Hon. David B. Henderson, of Iowa, who has been chosen by the Republican majority in the house of representatives as speaker is expected in Washington within the next week or so The presence of the speaker will be followed by the coming of a large number of inspiring republican members of the house who desire to be placed at the head of the different committees. A chairmanship of a committee, no matter how unimportant the position may be, or a good assignment upon one of the leading committees, such as rules ways and means, appropriations, rivers and harbors, banking, coinage weights and weights and measures, always gives a member more prestige in the house itself, enabling him to secure more legislation for his constituents and at the same time renders the gentleman more "important" in the eyes of his neighbors at home.

Speaker-to-be Henderson will upon his arrival at Washington, or shortly thereafter, begin the work of picking out his chairmen for the different committees. It is probable also that he will consult with the members who may be in Washington for the purpose of mapping out the course of legislation to be followed during the session. In the matter of the selection of his chairmen, the task of Speaker Henderson will be a comparatively easy one this year, for the reason that all of the men who are to be placed at the head of the more important committees have been selected in advance. For instance, Cannon will doubtless remain at the head of the appropriations committee. Sereno Payne, of New York, will be at the head of the ways and means, etc. Of course for the minor positions there will be numerous contests, but it is probable that for all of the leading committees, upon which the house depends for the orderly transaction of its business, the chairmen will be selected very soon after the arrival of the speaker.

The south will get but very few chairmanships in the next congress, as the representation on the republican side from the southern states in the next congress will be materially reduced. It is thought likely, however, that one of the elections committees will go to a southern republican. The south will probably be given representation on the appropriations committee, and rivers and harbor, and may be given a few other good assignments Speaker Henderson has always been friendly to the south.

It is said that President McKinley is contemplating a visit to Vice-President Hobart during the present month. Mr Hobart's condition is such as will prevent his coming to Washington during the present session, and it is said that he intimated to the president, through Mr. Forte, of New Jersey, his desire to see the chief magistrate. It is said that Mr. Hobart fully realizes the precarious condition of his health, and that he does not expect to survive for more than a few weeks at the white house no definite information could be obtained Sunday, but the belief is general that the president, and perhaps Mrs. McKinley will go to Paterson, the home of the vice-president, for a few days' visit to the distinguished patient.

There is already much talk among the Maryland democrats of adopting a constitutional amendment to limit the franchise in that state so as to render the negro vote less obnoxious. It is said that soon after the inauguration of Governor-elect Smith and the meeting of the Maryland legislature, an amendment will be prepared to be submitted to the people, which will be patterned after that in Mississippi, Louisiana and North Carolina, with some modifications.

The ladies of the North Carolina society will give their first reception on the 20th inst. It is expected that there will be a large attendance. During the coming winter numerous receptions will be given, which will be attended by the members of the society, members of the congressional delegation, and by prominent North Carolina officials in Washington.

LOST IN THE HURRICANE.

Wreck of the Schooner Byrd Off Frying Pan Shoals

Philadelphia, Nov. 11—News has been received here that the Philadelphia schooner William M. Bird, from Charleston, S. C., to New London, Conn., was wrecked in the October hurricane off the Frying Pan Shoals, N. C., and ten of the crew, including Captain Barrett, perished. Two of the survivors, George W. Loud, the mate, and George Robinson, seaman, have been landed at Salisbury, Md., by the schooner Samuel T Beacham, from Jacksonville, Fla., which vessel rescued them on the afternoon of November 3rd, 29 miles southwest of the Frying Pan Lightship. The survivors had been without food or water for ninety hours and suffered great hardships, having chewed the leather of their shoes to keep from starvation. They have not recovered sufficiently to tell just how their comrades perished, but they state in an incoherent manner that the lost men were swept off one by one from their wrecks as their strength grew weaker and drowned.

The William M Bird, as Captain John Steelmag, master of the Beacham, states, became waterlogged at 1 p. m., on October 30th and was a complete wreck five minutes afterward.

THE HURRICANE IN JAMAICA.

The United Fruit Company's Banana Groves Pretty Well Cleaned Up.

Kingston, Jam., Nov. 11—Messengers from the storm devastated districts report that Wednesday's hurricane was the most severe experienced in Jamaica for many years. It struck the east end of the island at 1 o'clock, and raged for four hours along the northern slopes and through the parishes of St. Thomas, St Mary and Portland, westward to Morant Bay on the south, and Lucea, on the north coasts, destroying all cultivation and most of the properties in its course, including one hundred thousand of the United Fruit Company's banana trees, conservatively estimated.

Port Antonio itself experienced serious damage to property, including the fruit company's wharf and premises. But the main force of the cyclone apparently struck Morant Bay to Priestman's river, which district is still totally cut off. The town of Morant Bay is shattered, and fears are entertained that the Fruit Company's business will be seriously crippled for the immediate future, as the Catherine plantations are the only part of their property which have not suffered, while most of the independent fruit cultivations are within the area of destruction. Estimates agree that the island's fruit trade will require one year to recover. No accounts of fatalities have yet been received.

OUR VICTORY OF PEACE.

Choate Says Anglo-American Bond Will Keep Nations From War.

Edinburg, Nov. 10—Joseph H. Choate, the United State ambassador, who was the chief guest at the annual banquet of the Walter Scott Club this evening, in the course of a speech proposing the toast to literature, said: "Truly your country and mine are connected by bonds of sympathy that were never stronger and closer than they are at this very hour. Lord Salisbury's generous and cordial words at the Lord Mayor's banquet yesterday will meet with a ready and hearty response by the American

"It has been said by a great poet that 'peace hath her victories not less renowned than war,' and this ironclad friendship which now prevails between these two sundered nations is the latest and greatest victory. It means peace in the city below on your country and mine, but among all the great nations of the earth, and it tends, by advancing civilization, to promote the welfare of the whole human race."

Andrew Lang responded to the toast.

The Band Minstrels.

A sure thing! Manager Bogart, of the Band Minstrels, is getting things in shape so as to put the play on the night of the 30th, being Thanksgiving. They have had considerable trouble in getting the music required to put the show on. But if nothing happens the above date will be the time of presentation. The very best talent in the city will take part in the vocal portion of the play, and the orchestra will be up-to-date in every respect. It will be conducted by Mr. Frank Blunt, as announced in Saturday's Telegram. The uniforms are entirely new and entirely different from anything ever seen on the Greensboro stage. Watch this paper for further particulars and count on one thing—that living, you will see a good show when you see the one given by the band.

Closed Last Night.

The sanctification meeting, which has been in progress at the gospel tent, corner South Elm and Lewis streets, for about three weeks, was brought to a close last night, Rev. Mr. Hypes preaching the closing sermon. Revs. Cecil and Hypes say there were about 200 conversions and sanctifications during the meeting Rev Hypes went to Reidsville at noon to preach tonight.

The tent will be shipped this week to Charlotte, where they will begin a meeting next Sunday.

NEXT YEAR.

The recent elections in twelve states of the union were not intrinsically important except in that they served as straws to show pretty correctly how the approaching wind of next year is going to blow. The democratic party, we are very much afraid, has received no encouragement from the skirmish While the expansion policy of the McKinley administration, which many people, especially in the south, thought would receive a crushing rebuke, while not having been the recipient of a well defined indorsement at the hands of the voters, was not set down upon with sufficient severity to discourage the imperialists.

It is a fairly certain thing that the presidential candidates will be Mr. McKinley and Mr. Bryan. While expansion or "criminal aggression" will be a collateral issue in the contest, the financial question will be the central attraction of the strife. On this issue the republican party is substantially a unit. On this issue the democrats are fatally divided. To an honest overlooker of the field, the one inevitable result is clear.

Unless some presently unseen event occur; unless the democratic party can settle its mountainous difficulties—which is altogether beyond the range of possibility—and unite in solid phalanx to meet the charge of the common foe, victory must rest once more next year on the banners of the republicans.

The future of the democratic party indeed looks ominous.

A new book, by I. S. Black, a banker of Warsaw, is now out. The title is an interrogatory. "The future of War—Is War Now Impossible?" The Charlotte Observer finds the latest answers coming "from South Africa," but a correct answer is arbitrary. There is a certain alleged field of "continuous battle" which would give the affirmative to Mr. Black's question.

POE AGAIN.

It is said that near the close of his sad life Edgar Allan Poe was engaged to marry Mrs. Sarah Helen Whitman, a female poet of New England of high order. No one knows why the union of these two lives of song was not made. The critic of the New York Times has this to say of the incident:

"Edgar Allan Poe was doubtless a great poet and a man of much genius; but, whatever excuse may be pleaded for him, he was not a man with whom such a woman as Sarah Helen Whitman could have been long happy."

The Wilmington Messenger, which always loves to talk of the greatest American genius—our southern Poe—and has done much to clear away misunderstandings in regard to the poet, in the above connection remarks that his reputation steadily grows. We copy from the Messenger at length:

For awhile he was in eclipse in New England and some other parts of the north. He was even treated with contempt and seriously disparaged, and that, too, in New England, where Walt Whitman is worshipped as one of the greatly inspired. The one poet was exquisite in his mastery of versification and melody and with an imagination of a refined and resplendant kind; the other was without form or comeliness, having no sense of harmony and no care for the rules of prosody. In England, in France, in the south, Poe's genius was held to be superior to that of any other American poet Recently a decidedly gifted teacher in the leading Baptist college in the southwest, William Jewell College, of Missouri, Professor John Phelps Fruit, of the chair of English language and literature, has published a volume on Edgar Poe entitled "The Mind and Art of Poe's Poetry." We have not yet seen it, but we must read it. It is thought to be a most important contribution to the literature on the great poet, and an admirable, comprehending and judicious interpretation of Poe. A newspaper, we believe the Richmond Times, but we did not mark the name on the clipping, says appreciatively and finely of the book:

"The lovers of poetry are not usually critics of poetry; the sympathetic mind is usually not the analytic mind—it is not always that the admirer can give reasons for his admiration; but none of these applications apply to the work of Professor Fruit. He is not merely a sympathetic admirer, not merely a careful, thorough and intelligent analyst, but he has the sense of poetry as Ruskin had the sense of art or Taine the sense of literature, equally gifted with feeling and with knowledge, and the result is a book worthy of the study not merely of the lovers of Poe, but of all lovers of poetry and of all students to whom literature has a meaning and a message and a soul."

Poe was in no sense of the north, although he was accidentally born in Boston, where his parents were acting. He was but partly southern in descent, while intensely southern in loyalty and feeling His mother was English, his father of good Maryland stock. We suppose it is proper to class him with other southern poets—with Timrod and Hayne and Lanier and the others.

The sweet potato and the festive 'possum are ripe. The delicious persimmon—its stem parting with golden lusciousness—drops to the frosty ground with a dull thud. The yellow November moon burns in the clear sky, pumpkin-pie will soon grace the board, the bird law is out and cornshuckings are abroad in the land. Thanksgiving Day is upon us, and the pompous gobbler sees the fading light shimmering on the wall. Tomorrow night the stars are going to fall, the roosters have gone to crowing early in the night—feeling Christmas in their bones, and a fellow at Lincolnton has bought him an automobile. Verily, ain't we "in it" here in old Calliny. Fill up the pitcher with 'simmon-and locust beer, pile on the hickory logs, get out the walnut basket, and now for a night of good cheer.

The Man With the Pen.

"We starved Poe, Timrod and Lanier."
Bowed by the weight of envious slurs he leans
Upon his pen and gazes on the floor.
The emptiness of justice in his face,
And on his brain the destiny of self.
Who made him dead to pleasure in this life,
A thing that toils forever—never hopes,
Stolid and stunned he sits upon his box,
Who sent his care and lined his wrinkled brow?
Whose was the hand that tangled back his hair?
Whose blow knocked out the life within his brain?
Is this the thing the Lord God made and sent
To have dominion over mind and heart,
To shape the courses of an anxious people,
To spend the peaceful power of Christian love?
Is this the dream He dreamed who breathed in man
The light of his own shining countenance?
'Mid all the forms in hell to its vast end
There is no shape more terrible than this,
More tongued by monsters steeped in hellish greed--
More filled with pain and misery for this life—
More fraught with sacrifice to brother men
What gulfs between him and his mansioned home!
Slave of the wheel of thought, and stars confused!
Thus Plato and the swing of Pleiades.
Vain the long sighings for the kegs of rum,
The juice of corn, the red reddening of the nose.
Through this dread shape the moving ages look,
Men's destinies are in that pitiless stoop;
Through this dread shape man's liberty,
Plundered, profaned and disinherited,
Cries protest to oppressors of the wronged,
A protest that is also prophecy.
O, masters, lords and rulers of our lands,
Is this the masonry you give to God,
This stupid form, distorted and soul-quenching?
How will you ever brighten up this shape?
Give back the inspiration and the life,
Rebuild in it the nation's wondrous deeds;
Touch it with immortality;
Make right the innumerable infamies, odious wrongs, immedicable woes?
O, master, lords and rulers of our lands,
How will the empty ages deal with you?
What be your answer in that coming hour,
When whirlwinds of rash justice shake the world?
How will it be with him who wronged this man—
Who now chisels him to the thing he is—
When this dumb spectre shall reply to God
After the silence of the centuries?

—L. W. Sifford.

A Thousand Tongues

Could not express the rapture of Annie E. Springer, of 1125 Howard st., Philadelphi, Pa., when she found that Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption had completely cured her of a hacking cough that for many years had made life a burden. All other remedies and doctors could give her no help, but she says of this Royal Cure—"it soon removed the pain in my chest and I can now sleep soundly, something I can scarcely remember doing before. I feel like sounding its praises throughout the Universe." So will every one who tries Dr. Kings' New Discovery for any trouble of the Throat, Chest or Lungs. Price 50c. and $1. Trial bottles free at C. E. Holton's drug store; every bottle guaranteed.

The clockmaker may talk shop, and yet his remarks are timely.

No Cure—No Pay.

That is the way all druggists sell Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic for Chills and Malaria. It is simply iron and quinine in a tasteless form. Children love it. Adults prefer it to bitter, nauseating tonics. Price, 50c

THE FLAG OF STARS.

Oh, not alone the eager south—
Alone the steadfast north—
Saw with wet eyes beneath spring skies
Our flag of stars go forth!
Oh, not alone the elder east,
Nor the young hearted west,
Smiled high with pride where side by side
The nation's children pressed!

But north and south and east and west
The mountain and the plain,
The prairie and the desert,
Yielded their flower again.
East and west and south and north
The flower of the land,
Hearing the mother's call, went forth
To stand at her right hand.

We be many hands in labor,
But one arm for the right;
One blood to shed, one heart till dead,
One good sword for the fight;
We be many tongued and minded,
But one mind and one tongue
When once wide sent through a continent
The nation's word has rung!

Then northern tongues sing "Dixie"
Beneath the ancient flag,
And the southerner dies to rebaptize
His own the "Yankee rag!"
Brothers—to keep for freedom's sake
The flag of stars unfurled
Beneath the stars of heaven—to make
The starlight of the world!

A LESSON IN COOKING.

How a Hobo Served Up a Dish of Roast Chicken.

"The first time I ran away from home I learned a trick or two that was worth the while," said a well known business man. "I started out on several unauthorized tours of adventure before I reached years of discretion, but the first is most vividly impressed upon my memory. Three of us kids caught a freight train and got some 60 or 70 miles away from home before the first nightfall. Then we didn't know where to spend the night. Several attempts to quarter ourselves in empty box cars on the side track of a little village only resulted in our being chased away and threatened with arrest, so we went to the outskirts of the place and built a fire on the bank of a little creek. Here we made ourselves as comfortable as possible and one or two of us had actually dozed off for short naps when a regular hobo, a good specimen of the real article, happened along and wanted to know if we had anything to eat. Of course we hadn't.

"'Well,' he said, 'if you fellers'll ketch a chicken I'll show you a trick that'll be useful to you.'

"It didn't take us long to catch the chicken and bring it back. The veteran member of the nomadic fraternity wrung its neck, jerked off its head, cleaned it and going down to the creek wadded it up, feathers, feet and all, in a big ball of yellow clay. This he rolled into the fire and scraped the burning embers up around it. The clay soon hardened, and we could see it among the wood coals gradually becoming a bright cherry red. When it did so, the cook rolled it out again, let it cool a little and then broke it open with a stone. The feathers had stuck to the baked clay and a clean, inviting chicken was ready to be served. All the moisture that in ordinary baking is lost had been kept in by the bricklike inclosure and the morsel that fell to my lot was the juiciest and sweetest I have ever eaten."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

His Absent Companions.

At a banquet given in Rochester two of the expected guests were unable to be present. The order of seating happened to be such that a particularly jovial and companionable gentleman sat with one of the vacant chairs on each side of him. The empty chairs and first course of oysters were left in place for some time in case the expected guests arrived. The solitary gentleman therefore could move neither to the right nor to the left, but amiably beamed throughout the repast, seemingly none the worse for his enforced isolation. After the banquet some one innocently asked him:

"How did you enjoy yourself, old chap?"

"First rate," he replied briskly enough. "I sat next to a couple of fellows who weren't there."—Rochester Herald.

The Managed Husband Is Worthless.

Helen Watterson Moody believes that the husband who can be managed is not worth managing. "and there is no better principle," she adds, in The Ladies' Home Journal, "for both husband and wife to adopt in adjusting themselves to the new relation than that of trying to do each by the other what men are accustomed to call 'the square thing.' Many a woman understands 'managing' a husband better than she does doing the square thing by him, and many a man understands and practices doing the square thing by other men who would be affronted if he were to be told that, judged by his own business standards, he habitually dealt unfairly with his own wife."

Mrs. Watkins' Club Inheritance.

"I don't see," said Mr. Mulberry, "why you women have that Mrs. Watkins in your literary club. The rest of you are bright enough, but she's as dull as dull can be."

"It's this way," answered Mrs. Mulberry. "Mrs. Watkins' great-grandmother's half sister's second cousin by marriage could trace her descent from Chaucer. So, you see, after all, with such literary claims, we couldn't very well leave Mrs. Watkins out."—Harper's Bazar.

A Candid Suitor.

"What do you think? Papa asked Jack if he expected to get any money in marrying me."

"Was Jack insulted?"

"Insulted? He told pop that a good home was more of an object to him than wages."—Detroit Free Press.

Chamberlain's Pain Balm Cures Others, Why Not You?

My wife has been using Chamerlain's Pain Balm, with good results, for a lame shoulder that has pained her continually for nine years. We have tried all kinds of medicines and doctors without receiving any benefit from any of them. One day we saw an advertisement of this medicine and thought of trying it, which we did with the best satisfaction. She has used only one bottle and her shoulder is almost well.—Adolph L. Millett, Manchester, N. H. For sale by C. E. Holton, druggist

A TWO HOUR BREAKFAST.

It Is One of the Institutions of New Orleans.

There is a place in New Orleans that strangers are always glad to have pointed out—Begeuy's, over in the French quarter, kept by Mme. Begeuy (pronounced Bigany, with the accent on the last syllable), and famous for the breakfasts it serves at 11 o'clock every morning.

Originally this breakfast was intended for the butchers, and they contributed to it the daintiest meats that the splendid French market in New Orleans provided from day to day. Gradually outsiders began to come in, and now one must engage a seat at breakfast two days ahead. The morning the writer was there a distinguished judge of the supreme court was the principal visitor, and he, with his family and several guests from Boston, sat at the head of the table.

One long table occupies the little dining room, to which one climbs by a rickety flight of stairs. Every Frenchman, when he gets up, takes a cup of coffee and a roll, and at 11 o'clock eats his real breakfast. This is the meal that Mme. Begeuy serves, and it costs $1. The kitchen is right off of the dining room, and there is no pretense of adornment. Everything is as plain and simple as it can be, excepting the food, and this is the perfection of the gastronomic art. A bottle of claret stood at each place, which, with water imported from Germany and called "blue label," was all there was to drink until the little cup of black coffee finished the repast.

The first thing served was duck. It was excellent, and so was everything else included in the eight or nine courses that came on, and that concluded, singularly enough, with liver, so cooked that the only regret was that the piece was not larger. It takes two hours to eat a breakfast at Begeuy's, and you get enough to last you for all day.—Leslie's Weekly.

A GRIM CEREMONY.

An Emperor's Death Hastened by Rehearsing His Own Funeral.

Emperor Charles V of Spain brought about his death by rehearsing his own funeral. For the last two years of his life, after resigning the scepter of Spain and the Netherlands to his son Philip, in 1556, Charles retired to the monastery of Yuste in Estremadura, and there lived a cloister life in close intercourse with the monks, devoting much time to religious exercises. During this period, prompted it may be by the example of Cardinal de la Marck, who for several years before his death, in 1528, had annually rehearsed his own obsequies, the emperor, in the summer of 1558, formed the resolution to celebrate his own funeral before he died.

Accordingly, on Aug. 30 of that year, the grim farce was carried out with the most elaborate ceremonial. The imperial domestics marched with black tapers in their hands, and the emperor, clad in sable weeds, himself followed, wearing his shroud. While the solemn mass for the dead was sung before the high altar in the cathedral Charles gave up his taper to the priest, typifying thereby his resignation of life, and was solemnly laid in his coffin. The ceremony closed with sprinkling holy water on his body; then, all the attendants retiring, the doors were shut, and Charles rose from his narrow bed and withdrew to his private apartment.

The damping of the graveclothes induced a chill, which, aided no doubt by the mental depression caused by the grewsome ceremony, induced a fever which ended in his death three weeks later, on the 21st of September, 1588.

A Missing Link.

It will doubtless surprise many who have never even heard of the brute that there still exists on the island of Java an animal, or rather a reptile, which seems to be the missing link between the ichthyosauri of prehistoric days and the well known saurians of modern times.

This animal is known to the Javanese as "linguin." It fell to the luck of Baron Alfonso Pereira, consul general of Austria-Hungary, to shoot one of these beasts some years ago. Its length was between nine and ten feet, and it looked a cross between a snake and a crocodile. Though the beast was cut and wounded in its encounter with Baron Pereira it did not bleed.

Pennsylvania Sand Mines.

There are all kinds of mines in Pennsylvania. The greatest are of course the iron and coal mines, but few people would guess that the next extensive mining industry is the sand mines in western Pennsylvania. These mines are rarely underground, however, and many of them are viewed with wonder by passengers on the Pennsylvania, approaching Pittsburg. Whole mountains are being dug away, and the granular rocks forming them are being reduced to sand for the manufacture of glass in and about Pittsburg.—Philadelphia Call.

The Omnipresent Rose.

Every continent on the globe, with the exception of Australia, produces wild roses. There can be little doubt that the rose is one of the oldest flowers in the world and, perhaps, grown from the wind blown seeds in Paradise.

In Egypt it is depicted on numbers of early bas-reliefs, dating from 3000 to 3500 B. C. Rosewater, or the essence of roses, is mentioned by Homer in the "Iliad," and the flower is spoken of in the Proverbs of Solomon.

Lamblike Resignation.

Charles Lamb, when reminded by his sisters of the days when they were poor and capable of enjoying the smallest treat with the keenest relish, so different from the days when they were rich and surfeited, said, "Well, Mary, since we are in easy circumstances we must endeavor to put up with it."

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident, of which Mr. John Oliver, of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows; "I was in a most dreadful condition tion. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides; no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately, a friend advised trying Electric Bitters: and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cents per bottle at C. E. Holton's drug store.

Mrs. Buggins—"I would do anything to recall a letter I wrote to Fanny last week in a moment of anger." Mrs. Muggins—"What did you do with it?" I gave it to my husband to mail." That's all right. Just go through his pockets."

The Poet Burns.

Not the least of the advantages attending life assurance is the serenity of mind which attends the provident man lying on a bed of sickness, or when he is in prospect of death—so unlike that painful anxiety for the future welfare of the family not provided for. The poet Burns, in writing to a friend a few days before his death, said that he was "still the victim of affliction. Alas! Clark, I begin to fear the worst. Burns' poor widow and a half a dozen of his dear little ones, helpless orphans; there, I am weak as a woman's tear. Enough of this, 'tis half of my disease!"

"If you would escape the rock upon which the lamented Burns split;" take shelter from the storm that is bound to spend its fury upon you when the fatal summons comes, by at once securing the magnetic contract offered by the Provident Savings.

Book-keeping, Business and Ornamental Penmanship and Shorthand.

For Both Sexes.

READ CAREFULLY.

PROF. V. THEO. ELY,

(12 Years Experience in Teaching)

Graduate from Rochester Business University, Rochester, N. Y., will open up a select school in Both Double and Single Entry Book-keeping, Shorthand and Muscular Movement Business Writing, at the Brockmann School of Music Hall, beginning from 9 till 11 a. m., also a separate night school from 7:00 till 9:00 for those who cannot attend in day time. No extra tuition for combining both periods.

Monday, November 13, 1899,

Tuition in both writing and book-keeping combined, full course, $10.00; writing alone, strictly slant, $3.00. Payable at the expiration of the term.

Success is guaranteed to all who attend regularly and apply themselves, or no charge will be made for tuition.

Term will continue until completed, which requires from six to eight weeks.

If you ever expect to learn book-keeping or to write a good hand, now is your time.

No tuition is paid till the term closes, and the term does not close till all have finished the book-keeping course, and each student is his own judge as to when he knows it.

This fact should be taken as sufficient guarantee of safety and success. Let the pupils attend regularly and we will be responsible for the rest. No LESSONS TO STUDY AT HOME.

Stationery for full book-keeping course, including writing material, etc., not over 80 cents. Writing material, etc., furnished at the hall.

Hall will be kept warm and comfortable.

Why You Should Attend This School:

Because for $10.00 you get the same identical course in book-keeping and penmanship that you would get at any commercial college at from $150 to $250. Because you complete the course before you pay tuition. Because every subject is taught from the blackboard without the use of a text book. Because every other branch except book-keeping and writing, is excluded, making it possible to complete the course in from six to eight weeks.

Because we, the undersigned pupils, have just finished Prof. Ely's course in book-keeping and writing at Nicholson's Hall, Union, S. C., and freely testify to the fact that truly he offers a chance of a lifetime to learn these important branches of business education:

H. E. Mabry, W. C. Hames, Webster Gregory, W. H. West, W. C. Smith, J. O. Babb, F. C. Posey, J. T. Hawkins, James L. Hawkins, George Witherspoon, T. J. Betenbaugh (county supervisor), J. F. Powell, J. G. Farr.

THE PROFESSOR'S BABY.

Medical Students Provided a Surprising Array of Presents For it.

"When I was a medical student in the University of Pennsylvania," said the doctor, "the boys celebrated an interesting event in the domestic life of one of the professors in a unique way. The news that the favorite professor was a happy father reached the students on Thursday morning, and that afternoon and evening there were consultations held all over the university buildings, and sundry dimes and quarters were collected by two or three of the students, who constituted a sort of finance committee. Every Friday morning the professor gave a lecture to the students in the amphitheater. The subject for the lecture that week was 'The Relation of the Sympathetic Nervous System to the Nerve Centers of the Brain,' and half an hour before the time set for the lecture every man in the class, which numbered about 350, was in his place waiting for the fun to begin and glancing now and then toward the three long operating tables in the center of the room.

"Promptly at 10 o'clock the door opened and the favorite professor entered the amphitheater. He carefully closed the door behind him, then with a self conscious clearing of his throat turned toward the class. At the first glance his jaw fell, while every one of the 350 fiends in the seats above began to yell at the top of his lungs. Spread out upon the three long operating tables were about 150 baby's toys and furnishings of every kind and description. There were rattles by the dozen, Noah's arks, dolls of all sizes, a toy cooking stove, a baby carriage, an embroidered flannel petticoat, a nursing bottle lying in a graduated glass, a pair of little blue kid shoes and other things too numerous to mention. After the first shock of surprise and embarrassment, the professor was game. He thanked us, in a speech peppered with five syllabled words, for our thoughtfulness in thus providing for the future needs of his offspring, but he observed, after a careful examination of the various instruments of infantile delight spread out before him, that we had forgotten one thing, a bottle of paregoric. Then he yawned in a way suggestive of midnight vigils and turned his attention to 'The Relation of the Sympathetic Nervous System to the Nerve Centers of the Brain.'

"But he was not allowed to proceed beyond the first sentence or two. His attention was drawn to the blackboard, where some student of artistic tendencies had drawn an elaborately decorated design in red, white and blue chalk, 'Is Marriage a Failure?' The poor professor, seeing that there was no possibility of a serious lecture that morning, entertained us for about ten minutes on the text posted on the blackboard; then, after inviting us all to visit the newcomer in the immediate future, he marched off to the music of 350 voices singing, 'Go to Sleep, My Little Pickaninny' and 'Daddy Wouldn't Buy Me a Bowwow.'"—New York Sun.

A SCENE OF BUTCHERY.

The Slaughter That Came With the End of the Janizaries.

On the 15th day of June, 1826, the whole corps of the janizaries in the capital assembled, overturned their camp kettles (the signal of revolt) and advanced upon the seraglio. With his own hand the sultan unfurled the sacred "sanjak sherif" and called upon the true believers to rally round their dischah and caliph, and the zealous Mussulman citizens rushed from all quarters and rallied under the sacred symbol. The ranks of the janizaries were raked with grape and solid shot by "Black Hell" (a nickname for Ibrahim, general of artillery) and his gunners as they pressed through the streets, compelling them to fall back to the Etmeidan, where they defended themselves with extraordinary fierceness, slaying great numbers of their assailants. The artillery, supported by the marines and the bostangi, pressed forward and compelled them to retreat to their barracks, where they offered desperate resistance to the assault.

From every street cannon thundered on the walls without intermission, the building was soon in flames, the walls torn and battered down by grapeshot, and the janizaries, overwhelmed by ruins, shot and flames, perished in their burning and blood stained barracks. For two days the gates of the city remained closed, and with relentless vigor every corner was searched for such janizaries as had escaped the general massacre, and when found they were hastily executed. Nearly 20,000 janizaries were destroyed on this memorable day, and many thousands were afterward put to death in the various cities of the empire, and thus not one of the number under arms was left to tell the tale.—Self Culture.

Accounted For the Fit.

Hon. George R. Peck so keenly appreciates a good joke that he tells the following on himself:

"When, after a foreign trip, I was being welcomed by some of my friends in Topeka, I wore a suit of clothes made by a London tailor that was uncomfortably tight in places. I expressed my surprise that a loose fit in London should prove a tight fit in Topeka, whereupon an Irishman of the party exclaimed:

"'Mr. Peck, don't forget you're a bigger man in Topayka than you were in London.'"—Chicago Journal.

DEWEY AND HIS WIFE IN A MOB.

Had to Seek Refuge in a Store and Escape by a Side Door.

New York, Nov. 11—Admiral Dewey says he that likes New York, he wants to stay here a few days and will be sorry to leave, but he will be obliged to cut short his visit if he is accorded any more receptions as he and his bride received today at Fifteenth street and Union Square. A crowd followed the admiral and Mrs. Dewey as they walked down Fifth avenue from the hotel at Fifteenth street, gathered around them and kept them imprisoned.

The crowd shouted and hurrahed and some attempts were made to raise the admiral on the shoulders of some of the more zealous of the enthusiasts. Admiral Dewey begged and implored the people to proceed, but finally he had to take refuge in a store, from which he escaped by a door to a side street.

The admiral and Mrs. Dewey spent the afternoon in their apartments. The rule as to cards, which had been enforced up to today, was relaxed and a few friends were received.

Admiral Dewey remained all the evening in his apartments at the Waldorf. His son dined with him. A surprise was given to the admiral by the members of the band of the Olympia, who serenaded him at the hotel.

This afternoon Manager Boldt, of the Waldorf, made the following statement: "Admiral Dewey requests me to say that he would be thankful if the newspapers would call the attention of the public to the annoyance he and his wife have been subjected to, to request the people to cease their demonstrations. The admiral says he appreciates the fact that the demonstrations are caused through [illegible] would not mind it so much himself, but it makes his wife nervous and greatly upsets her. He says that he and Mrs Dewey were practically made prisoners today by the crowds."

Ah, never doubt my love is true
Though not in speech it flows,
For dear, I cannot tell it you,
My heart no language knows,
And still can only yearn and ache,
In silence though it break.

But not by any speech is known
The hidden lore of deep and height
The sea has nothing but a moan,
The dark is silent and the light;
The grandest music needs no word
To make its meaning heard.

You dwell amidst my daily strife,
A thing apart, divine.
And all that's noblest in my life
Is incense at your shrine,
For every worthy deed I do
Is done for love of you.

Catarrh is Not Incurable

But it can not be cured by sprays, washes and inhaling mixtures which reach only the surface. The disease is in the blood, and can only be reached through the blood. S. S. S. is the only remedy which can have any effect upon Catarrh; it cures the disease permanently and forever rids the system of every trace of the vile complaint.

Miss Josie Owen, of Montpelier, Ohio, writes: "I was afflicted from infancy with Catarrh, and no one can know the suffering it produces better than I. The sprays and washes prescribed by the doctors relieved me only temporarily, and though I used them constantly for ten years, the disease had a firmer hold than ever. I tried a number of blood remedies, but their mineral ingredients settled in my bones and gave me rheumatism. I was in a lamentable condition, and after exhausting all treatment, was declared incurable. Seeing S. S. S. advertised as a cure for blood diseases, I decided to try it. As soon as my system was under the effect of the medicine, I began to improve, and after taking it for two months I was cured completely, the dreadful disease was eradicated from my system, and I have had no return of it."

Many have been taking local treatment for years, and find themselves worse now than ever. A trial of will prove it to be the right remedy for Catarrh. It will cure the most obstinate case.

DR. IVEY HERE YESTERDAY.

A Revival of Religion in Greensboro Female College.

Rev. T. N. Ivey, D. D., editor of the Raleigh Christian Advocate, preached twice in this city yesterday, to the spiritual delight and edification of interested congregations. At 11 a. m. he filled Dr. Rowe's pulpit at West Market street church, preaching to over a thousand people. At 8 p. m. Dr. Ivey preached in the Chapel of Greensboro Female College. It was the writer's good fortune to be present. The good doctor, who is second to no pulpit orator in the state, was at his best and his sermon, based on the words "Exercise thyself rather unto Godliness," was a feast of spiritual food.

The congregation, composed almost entirely of college girls, paid the closest attention to the eloquent preacher's words. At the close of the sermon a sight was presented, over which the angels, looking down from the battlements of heaven, no doubt rejoiced and sang praises to God. In response to an invitation extended by Prof. Smoot, a number of young ladies knelt at the front seat seeking salvation. A great work of grace has been going on in the college for several days, and we found ourselves in the midst of a genuine, old-fashioned Methodist revival. Dr Rowe has been conducting daily services in the evening, assisted by Prof. Smoot, and there have been many conversions. A number have already joined the church and there will be others to join.

Dr. Rowe, who came in before the sermon was over last night, having preached at West Market, made a few remarks in which he said he hoped that when this meeting closed he could tell the people everywhere that every student at the college was a Christian, and there was not a representative of sin left. The way the Holy Spirit manifested itself last night and the way the Christian young ladies went to work with their friends it looks like the doctor's wish will be realized. The work is earnest and effective. We were impressed with the number of young ladies who crowded around their friends at the altar and the earnest prayers offered by them. The good work is still in progress.

THE NEW JAIL.

The Justices of the Peace of Guilford Called to Meeting.

Greensboro, N. C., Nov. 4.
To the justices of the peace of Guilford county:

Gentlemen—On October 30th, we called the justices together for the purpose of authorizing the county commissioners to sell and transfer the present jail lot. On account of the inclement weather, there was not a majority of same present and an official meeting could not be held. For the information of those not present at this meeting, we will say that it is proposed to sell the present jail lot for $7,500 and buy a more suitable lot nearby for $2,500, thereby leaving a balance of $5,000 to be applied in building a new jail.

We are compelled to have a new jail, and as soon as one can be built; and we think if the proposed real estate deals can be made we can build the jail without levying a special tax for the purpose.

At our regular meeting held today we decided to call the justices to meet at 12 o'clock Monday, December 4th, at the court house, Greensboro, to consider the proposed sale.

Although there was not a majority of justices present at the last meeting, the plan was discussed and a vote taken on it by those present, and there was not one in fifty justices to vote against it. The only trouble we anticipate is to get a majority present, and we trust all will come at that time.

The day appointed (Monday, Dec. 4th) is the next regular meeting of the board, and also the first day of December court.

Respectfully,
W. C. Boren,
W. H. Regan,
W. C. Michael,
County Commissioners.

New Ordinance.

Be it ordained by the board of aldermen of the city of Greensboro, North Carolina:
